

Giving a cup of cold water in Jesus' name.

Mark Wakefield, Alabama Baptist Disaster Relief and Chaplaincy Ministries strategist, says that the first 24 to 48 hours following a disaster can be a survivor's most critical time of need. After watching the role play, share your insights about interacting with disaster survivors:

What did you notice about the interaction?

What made the volunteer helpful ... or not?

What does it mean to serve with both efficiency and compassion?

Where are the "serving windows" in your everyday life? How can you minister to others at those windows?
